

Matt McCormack Evans – Head of Transformation and Change

Expertise

Performance and operational service reviews, Target Operating Models, corporate strategy, strategic reviews, process redesign and strategic procurement.

About

Matt is an experienced consultant who works across our strategy and change, governance, and property work streams.

Matt delivers a range of change projects including Target Operating Model design, service reviews, and change implementation. His strategy work is equally diverse but with particular expertise in developing corporate strategy, merger and acquisition work, and strategic procurement.

Matt is also highly experienced in conducting governance reviews and mock In-Depth Assessments for Registered Providers. Matt has a background in regeneration work and has a detailed understanding of the development process.

Altair Assignments

Recent projects that Matt has been involved in include:

- Developing a Target Operating Model for a medium-sized HA in the South West of England
- Culture review for a large HA in the North of England
- Merger and Acquisition strategy for a number of medium and small HAs in London
- Development and Asset Management strategy for a medium-sized HA in the South West of England
- Service review and Target Operating Model for a national care and support provider
- Project management and procurement advice for a council-owned company
- Change implementation for an HA in the North of England

Background

- Experience of working on equality issues in the not for profit sector
- Durham University – Master’s Degree, Philosophy

