

Digital and Technology Consultancy Services

Altair's Digital and Technology service stream is dedicated to supporting its clients to become more efficient and effective organisations whilst maximising investment and spend.

We do this through the development and delivery of digital strategies, informed business cases, design of digitally-enabled IT and solution architectures, procurement and deployment of effective IT solutions, design of target operating models, performance and service reviews, reviewing and re-engineering processes, organisation design and working with in-house teams to deliver change.

Expertise

Our team provides a wide range of expert support including:

- Hybrid applications architecture design
- Technology options and scenario planning incorporating impact assessments
- Implementation roadmapping and transition planning
- Customer journey mapping and technology alignment
- Data strategy and maturity reviews
- IT and digital strategy development and Programme delivery
- IT service reviews
- Applications and infrastructure review and Business case development
- Procurement and implementation
- IT service interim management

Examples of our work

- Digital service design and future state applications architecture design, implementation roadmap and transition planning for a large Registered Provider
- Platform or product options appraisal for a recently formed housing group
- Data strategy for a medium sized Registered Provider
- IT and digital strategy development for a county council
- ICT managed service provisioning contract procurement for a London based Registered Provider
- Digital strategy and implementation for a large regional housing provider
- Stage review of a Microsoft platform implementation
- IT service review and the development of a new Target Operating Model for a unitary authority
- Core system implementation support for a London borough

Get in touch to find out more

Ian Lever

Director - Digital & Technology
ian.lever@altairltd.co.uk
07771 886 886

Phil Smith

Business Development Director - Digital & Technology
phil.smith@altairltd.co.uk

Leadership
Quality
Insight